This is a narrative of the use of supplemental funds awarded under the above grant to improve and expand the cooperative education program at Georgia Tech. This program is in compliance with the Title VIII, HEA, Cooperative Education Program Regulations.

The Cooperative Plan has been available as an optional method of education at the Georgia Institute of Technology (at first, the Georgia School of Technology) since 1912. Total enrollment at Georgia Tech is under an overall restriction, but the co-op portion of that enrollment has been growing steadily in recent years. There has been a 10% increase this fall over the enrollment figure for last fall, and 26% of the undergraduate students are enrolled in the cooperative program. This group includes 11% of the College of Management, 20% of the College of Science and Liberal Studies, and 33% of the Engineering College. Since state budget money for the Cooperative Division is not directly tied to the enrollment of the Division, there has not been a corresponding increase in the funding for travel, publications, and personnel. The supplementary funds available under this grant have been particularly helpful in supplementing travel funds and publication costs. The following page summarizes the activity in these areas supported by supplemental funds.

It was possible to adhere rather closely to the proposed plan for travel activities. Time restrictions prohibited the organization of the four employer information meetings originally planned, inappropriate offerings for coordinator training sessions cut this number by one, and one less in-state employer trip and one more out-of-state employer trip was made. Each of the staff members was able to attend at least one meeting of co-op schools and employers. State funds enabled other meetings to be attended and other trips to be taken.

It became apparent early in the year that the expenditures for publications could be maintained in the same general areas, but that certain of the publications would have to be modified. These publications were designed by the Publications staff of the Institute at no cost to the Cooperative Division and were printed with the funds budgeted. Four issues of the student newsletter were printed and distributed to students, employers, and faculty.

PUBLICATIONS

4 Issues Student Newsletter
2000 Employer Manuals
5000 Student Information Brochures

It is estimated that over 2,600 students will be active participants in our cooperative program this school year.
